Wickersham Was an Aide to Eisenhower in World War 2

Albany, Feb. 11 (AP)—The Legislature today elected Cornelius W. Wickersham, a retired lieutenant-general, to the Board of Regents.

Wickersham, 68-year-old former military aide to President Eisenhower in World War 2, succeeds W. Kingsland MacFarland, L. I. MacFarland, a former GOP congressman from Suffolk county and an outspoken political critic of Gov. Dewey, decided not to seek reelection to the post he has held since 1941. His present 12-year term ends next March 31.

Rubin Unsuccessful

The election of Wickersham was assured yesterday when the majority Republicans in the Senate and Assembly nominated the former army officer in separate sessions. The unsuccessful Democratic candidate for the post was Max J. Rubin, 47, of Great Neck, a New York city lawyer.

The election is formalized as the two houses "compare journals" in a traditional joint session.

Wickersham may serve on the board, which supervises the state education system, only until April 1, 1955. A 1945 law prohibits a regent named after that year from serving after the April 1 following his 70th birthday. Wickersham will be 70 on June 25, 1954.

Women Have Top Jobs in Business Unit in California

Huntington Park, Calif., Feb. 11 (AP)—The head of one of the nation's largest water heating manufacturing concerns says that a woman with business sense will make more progress than a man, if given the same opportunity.

That's why Milton J. Stevens, president of the Republic Heater Corp., which does a six million dollar business in a year, has an "all petticoat" management team.

Opal Mitchell, a vice-president, acts as national sales manager. Mary Patton, corporation secretary, also is comptroller. Hazel Barrow, once a reception girl for Stevens, now is his chief purchaser, and Mrs. Nancy Martin bosses the service division and is traffic manager.

Cuts Labor Force

Besides his own line, Stevens makes water heaters for 28 competitors. Efficiency is his watchword. The average plant making home water heaters employs 40 men to make 400 boilers in eight hours, but his plant turns that many out with 10 men, using new machinery, some of which he designed.

Stevens bought Republic Heater in 1947 for one million dollars. He predicts he will be grossing 15 million dollars by the end of 1953. He's building a new plant at Memphis that will add floor furnaces, air conditioners and water softeners to his line. His firm started making garbage disposal units six months ago and today ranks fifth among 17 American manufacturers.

He credits much of his success to the efficiency of the women who oversee the manufacture, distribution and maintenance of his products. Stevens says he believes his company is the only one of its nature that has an all-woman management.

That's why he can afford to keep his customers in hot water.

Jelke Judge Gets Order On His Ban

Valente Must Show Why Press and Public Can't Hear Court Testimony of Pat Ward

New York, Feb. 11 (AP)—General Sessions Judge Francis L. Valente was directed today by a Supreme Court justice to show cause Friday why he should not lift his order excluding the public and the press from the vice trial of Minot (Mickey) Jelke, oleomargarine heir.

The order was issued by Justice Benjamin F. Schreiber on a petition by five of the city's newspapers and two wire services, who charged that the exclusion is arbitrary, unreasonable, unconstitutional and an "unlawful assumption of censorship powers by the court."

Judge Valente's order bans the public and press during the presentation of the prosecution's case against Jelke.

Hit 'Morals' Excuse

The petitioning publishers and wire services said the order was not made for the purpose of protecting and safeguarding Jelke's rights, to maintain order in the courtroom or to protect the interests of witnesses.

Their petition said that the order "may serve to afford protection to individuals, rather than to safeguard and protect the morals of the public."

The application said that "the petitioners, or their duly accredited representatives should be allowed to be present at the trial and to report the same fairly and truthfully to the public."

Claim Abuse of Authority

The petition said the exclusion order is "contrary to law and an abuse of judicial authority and discretion on the following grounds, among others:

"A—it is an unlawful abridgment of the rights and privileges accorded to petitioners and the public by the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of the State of New York, including the rights of free speech and freedom of the press secured thereby.

"B—it is an infringement of the public's interest in the administration of justice, and the right of the public to be kept informed by newspapers and other media of the proceedings of its courts.

"C—it is a violation of the provisions of law requiring that trials shall be public, except as to certain classes of trials not including the trial over which respondent (Justice Valente) is presiding.

Claim Route 28 Flow of Cars Will Be Dangerous at Viaduct

The services and facilities of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce were pledged to support the Kingston Industrial Development Corporation now in the process of being organized at a meeting of the Board of Directors Tuesday night at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

It was also voted to contact the City Common Council and the Ulster County Board of Supervisors calling attention to the traffic problem which will be created by the opening of the Thruway to Route 28, and the need for some prompt official action to remedy the dangerous condition at the Washington avenue viaduct and Esopus creek bridge connecting with the Onteora Trail.

A report was given at the meeting indicating that the paving of the Thruway to the Onteora Trail might be finished by this fall and that it might be opened to traffic. It was also reported that the contract for the next section of the Thruway, south of the Onteora Trail, will be let this spring and that construction work will start. This means that the paving could not be completed until the fall of 1954.

Commend MacAvery

The Chamber board unanimously passed a resolution commending Lawrence J. MacAvery for his faithful and effective community service as president of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce for the past two years.

This was the first meeting of the board of directors at which President Adrian Kaplan presided. Robert M. Peebles was named to the amateur talent contest committee, which is making plans for the second annual county-wide amateur contest.

It was also decided to name a committee to consider some kind of a contest and offer prizes for a window display to be placed in the Chamber of Commerce windows.

Flu Cancels Visit Of Bloodmobile To City on Friday

The scheduled visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile Friday has been canceled it was announced today by the Ulster County Chapter, Red Cross, because of influenza in the area, which is approaching epidemic proportions.

The bloodmobile was to have been at the Kingston Municipal Auditorium to collect 250 pints of blood for shipment to the Korea battle areas where it is sorely needed to treat wounded Americans.

At the time today's announcement was made by Ulster Chapter, the Red Cross unit in Dutchess county also said that the bloodmobile would not visit Poughkeepsie either because the quota could not be reached on account of illness.

Only 91 Volunteers

When Mrs. Vincent Connelly made the announcement about cancellation for the Ulster committee, she said that because of the flu only 91 volunteers were ready to report Friday, and that (Continued on Page 3, Col. 7)

Way Is Cleared for School to Receive Aid Under Federal Act, Wicks' Office Declares

The way has been cleared for the Morgan Hill School to receive surplus food under the federal Agricultural Price Support Act through the State Distributing Agency, it was learned today.

A state Education Department official has revealed that acceptable contracts have been filed with that department.

Previously submitted contracts had to be rejected because they were filled in with the name "Morgan Hill School." That the department points out is a local colloquialism, of "no legal significance." The contract, to be acceptable, had to be executed in the name of "Common School District No. 8, Town of Hurley."

No commodities under Section 32 of the Agricultural Price Support Act have been made available for distribution anywhere in the state so far this year, but when they are made available the Morgan Hill School now is in a position to receive its share.

The school district is also eligible for the two-cent reimbursement per unit in distributing milk to children, but has not applied for that portion of the program. Under this provision, the district may apply and participate in a program to distribute milk to its pupils at a cost to the child of the price paid to the vendor less two cents per half pint.

This information was made available in a letter from James E. Allen, Jr., deputy commissioner of education, to the Albany office of Senate Majority Leader Arthur H. Wicks.

The letter came in response to a clipping from The Freeman of Jan. 29 sent Allen by former Mayor Conrad J. Heislman of Senator Wicks' office, in which was told the plight of Mrs. Fern Fajeta, the teacher of that school, who was "supplying snacks on her own initiative for her pupils while trying to fathom the red tape which apparently surrounds the various subsidized school lunch programs."

Pointing out that the program is now being administered "under a rather detailed and rigid contract executed between the Education Department and the U. S. Department of Agriculture," Allen (Continued on Page 3, Col. 5)

Reed Tax Measure Backed by Group Of Bill's Writers

Treasury Neither Will Give Backing Nor Oppose Action—Insists He's Right

Washington, Feb. 11 (AP)—The Eisenhower Administration evidently has accepted politely a decision by Republicans on the House Ways and Means committee to vote for early action to reduce income taxes.

Informed sources said today that treasury officials made it clear to committee members, at a private dinner meeting last night, that they will neither support nor oppose right now a tax cutting drive led by Rep. Reed (R-N.Y.).

Earlier yesterday, at a caucus, GOP members of the tax-writing committee were reported reliably to have decided to vote next Monday in favor of Chairman Reed's bill to reduce individual income tax rates 10 per cent starting June 30.

Persons who attended last night's dinner, asking not to be named, said treasury officials suggested they would have liked the committee to delay action until treasury specialists have more time to survey prospects for Federal revenue and spending.

Decision Accepted

Administration spokesmen were said to have accepted the committee members' decision as "one of the facts of life." The meeting was said to have been "pleasant and harmonious."

President Eisenhower and the treasury have called for spending cuts and a near-balanced budget before taxes are cut.

Administration spokesmen, however, were said to have told the GOP committee members last night that they are just as anxious as congressmen to cut taxes. The only conflict, these sources said, was over timing of action on the Reed bill.

The administration was said to be hoping the House Rules Committee will stall the proposal for about two months. Whether Reed and some other committee members would agree not to fight against such a delay remained to be seen.

Would Provide Cut

Reed's bill would give some 50 million taxpayers an average 10 per cent cut in their income tax rates starting June 30. Payroll withholding taxes would drop from the present 20 per cent to 18 per cent.

Such a cut is scheduled Dec. 31 under present laws. Congressional staff specialists estimate advancing the reduction by six months would cost $1,800,000,000 in revenue for the fiscal year starting July 1.

The Eisenhower administration is said to feel this loss in revenue would make it very difficult, if not impossible, for the new President to balance his first full fiscal budget—a prime goal of the President.

Reed has insisted the budget can be balanced under his bill.

First Conference Tuesday

Washington, Feb. 11 (AP)—President Eisenhower will hold his first news conference since his inauguration at 10:30 a. m. (EST) next Tuesday. The conference will not be televised.

Van Fleet Is Honored by South Korea

Heavy Burden Is Ended as Taylor Takes Over His Command—Rhee Presents Pups

(Fred Waters, Associated Press photographer and longtime friend of Gen. James A. Van Fleet, accompanied the departing U. S. Eighth Army commander today on a flight from Korea to Tokyo. Waters has a special place in Van Fleet's heart—it was he who took the last pictures of the general and his only son, James Jr., now listed as missing in action after a bomber mission over Red Korea.)

By FRED WATERS

Tokyo, Feb. 11 (AP)—Gen. James A. Van Fleet, the old fighter against communism in Greece and Korea, paused here today for farewell honors in his journey home to retirement.

A glittering array of military and diplomatic officials paid a hero's tribute to the general who only a few hours earlier had bade a tearful farewell to his beloved U. S. Eighth Army in Korea.

On the plane which brought him here from Korea, Van Fleet seemed thoroughly relaxed, with the heavy burden of a long command lifted from his broad shoulders.

But tonight, at a dinner and reception at the home of Gen. Mark Clark, UN Far Eastern commander, the doctored warrior appeared somewhat uncomfortable as United Nations dignitaries jammed around him.

Command Is Ended

He ended his historic 22-month command of the 17-nation allied army today when he turned the job over to Lt. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor.

Then, while a band played "Auld Lang Syne," Van Fleet bade a plane at Seoul for the first leg of the long-journey home. He blinked back the tears and, in a gruff voice, choked with emotion, said:

"Let's get outta here."

In a brief landing at Pusan, he laid wreaths in the United Nations cemetery.

"This is a very sacred duty," he said. "This is my last official act—to pay my respect to these gallant men who have made the supreme sacrifice for us."

En route from Pusan to Tokyo, the gallant old soldier removed his traditional pearl handled pistol—a Colt 45—and placed it in a leather bag.

Present From Son

"This is a real military bag," he said slowly. "It was given to me by my son. So was this gun. That's the reason I'm so attached to it."

Van Fleet's only son, James Jr., a Fifth Air Force pilot, has been listed as missing in action since an April 4 B-26 mission over North Korea.

"I'm happy to be here on my way home," the general told reporters at Tokyo. "I have no plans except that I am going to report to Washington. But I have a good place down in Florida where I can hang my hat."

Tomorrow evening, at about 6 p. m., Van Fleet and his party will board General Clark's Constellation for Honolulu. He will meet Mrs. Van Fleet there and spend a few days resting. From Honolulu, the Van Fleets will travel to San Francisco aboard the ship President Jackson.

Senators have insisted top Defense Department nominees must get rid of holdings in firms that do business with the government. Sprague said his firm's volume last year was $44.7 million of which just $314,600 was on Air Force contracts. The firm had decided not to take any Air Force work during Sprague's tenure.") ## Might Take Place of Any Navy Block

Anti-Communists Might Help in Strategy of Holding Back All Shipments

Washington, Feb. 11 (AP)—The Eisenhower administration may ask U. S. allies to join in an embargo on all shipments to Red China as an alternative to proposals for a risky naval blockade.

This move was among those some highly placed administration officials thought might come before the strategy-making National Security Council for discussion at a White House meeting today (10:30 a. m. EST).

Secretary of State Dulles, who told senators yesterday that so far as he knows Eisenhower has made no Far Eastern commitments beyond his 7th Fleet order, planned to attend, and Mutual Security Administrator Harold E. Stassen was invited.

One Republican official said in an interview that a survey has indicated it probably would be necessary for the U. S. to go it alone in any attempt to blockade the China coast and thus cut off shipments of goods to the Communists.

Might Expand Embargo

On the other hand, there was some belief in administration circles that the larger anti-Communist nations might be willing to expand a "strategic embargo" recommended against Communist China by a United Nations committee in May, 1951.

While the U. S. has embargoed all shipments to the Reds, other nations have put only selected articles on the list. Britain, for instance, still ships medical supplies to China.

There has been a great deal of talk among congressmen and military officials about instituting a blockade. Some have said they believe such action might risk a full-scale war; others have minimized the possibility.

Could Use One, He Says

Gen. Omar N. Bradley was quoted as having told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee yesterday that so far as international law goes, a blockade legally could be laid against Chinese ports and also against Russian-controlled Port Arthur and Dairen.

Barrett Describes Letters Viewed as Smear by Forgery

Sanders Denies He Wrote Missives, Waltman Denies Getting Them

Washington, Feb. 11 (AP)—Two letters, described as forgeries by the chairman of a Senate subcommittee, are major pieces of evidence in the investigation of an alleged smear effort against Vice President Nixon before his election.

Members of the elections subcommittee headed by Sen. Barrett (R-Wyo.) disclosed some details yesterday of the matters now being probed by the Justice Department at committee request.

Barrett described the letters, which have to do with a purported $52,000 payment from oil interests to Nixon when he ran for the Senate in 1950, as forgeries. The men over whose names the letters were written deny writing them.

One of the purported letters is addressed to Franklin W. Waltman, publicity director for the Sun Oil Co., in Philadelphia, and bears the name of H. W. Sanders, vice-president of the Union Oil Co., of California. It states that oil companies were paying $52,000 to Nixon and that he would serve the interests of the oil industry.

Jury Convicts Goldstein on Bribe Charge

Hudson, Feb. 11 (AP)—A State Supreme Court jury early today found taxi operator Benjamin Goldstein guilty of bribing John N. McLaren, district attorney-elect at the time, in an attempt to gain tip-offs on gambling raids.

Goldstein, whose first trial ended last week in a deadlocked jury, will be sentenced Feb. 24. He is the first defendant to be convicted in the state-ordered probe of crime and vice in Columbia county, now 13 months old.

He faces a maximum sentence of not more than 10 years in prison, or a fine of not more than $5,000, or both.

The jury of 11 men and one woman deliberated about 4 1/2 hours. It was given the case at 6:13 p. m. (EST), last night, took time out for dinner and further instructions from Justice Henry L. Ughetta, and returned its verdict at 12:37 a. m.

Is Held in Jail

Ughetta ordered Goldstein, who was convicted in 1950 of operating a numbers game, held in Columbia county jail.

No charges have been placed against McLaren, who testified yesterday that Goldstein gave him $100 in December, 1949, and promised him $100 a month if he would give Goldstein advance notice of gambling raids in Hudson.

McLaren, who took office the following month, said yesterday he had returned the $100 through a third party several days later.

Under cross-examination by defense counsel Daniel H. Prior, McLaren said he had not reported the incident to the then district attorney or the police chief, or taken action against Goldstein after he became district attorney.

Wicks Declares Permanent Registration Would Hurt

Permanent registration of voters would be a distinct step backward for the cities of New York state, according to Senator Arthur H. Wicks of this city, who upheld the present system of annual registration as most desirable in a speech on the floor of the Senate yesterday.

"The 1952 election clearly showed that when people are sufficiently aroused and interested they will turn out at the polls," said the Republican majority leader, who pointed out that 11 million more people voted for President than in 1940.

Wicks attacked the permanent personal registration for the whole of New York state as undesirable in that it would tend to undermine the responsibility of voters as citizens and contribute to the breakdown of our system of government.

The senator's speech follows:

We want a system of registration in this state which will not only bring out the largest possible number of voters but which also will continue to arouse the intelligent interests of all the people in the issues, principles and candidates involved in all elections.

We believe that we have that thing which convinces us that any other system is accomplishing better results along these lines any place else in the United States.

Registration serves a double purpose: it registers every citizen eligible to vote who has enough interest in his government to come to the polls. Secondly, (Continued on Page 3, Col. 2)

Movie Director Has To Learn Over With New Depth

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Feb. 10 (AP)—The man with the biggest headache in Hollywood is a genial German-American named Henry Koster.

Until a week ago, Koster looked with satisfaction toward his next directing assignment, "The Robe." True, it was a massive, $4 million epic involving great sets and a huge cast. But he was skilled in his craft and was prepared to meet whatever problems arose.

Then the storm broke. His studio, 20th Century-Fox, announced it would make no more flat-screen pictures. It was converting to the huge, curved-screen cinemascope. The first film under the new-dimensional method would be "The Robe."

When I saw Koster in his Grant Wood-decorated office, he seemed harassed but happy.

"Before this happened, I was too content," he admitted. "I thought I knew exactly how to make a picture—what lenses to use, how to place the actors, when to use a closeup, etc.

He's Pioneer Again

"Now I'm a pioneer. It's good for me. It's exciting to learn a whole new way to make a picture."

He showed off his new finder, through which he peers to envision movie scenes. It was much broader than the usual proportions of a movie screen.

"That's how it will look," he said. "The screen will be even broader than the scope of a theatre stage. That means there will be less work for the cutter. Scenes will probably not have closeups and be chopped up. It will be like filming short scenes from a play. We will have to focus attention on certain faces by means of lighting or dialogue, the same as it is done on the stage."

"Cinemascope will mean this—you can have a line of dancing Rockettes on the screen and see each face as if in a closeup." He added that the script of "The Robe" hasn't been changed, but some of the sets have. They must be built wider and lower, to accommodate the wide-angle lens.

Ready in October

"The Robe" will hit the king-size screens in October, when 20th Fox hopes that several thousand theatres in the U. S. will be so equipped. Then we'll find out whether Hollywood's revolution is going to succeed.

The studio is virtually staking its entire future that big-screen movies will be a success. Said Vice-president Al Lichtman: "We predict that this will be the shot in the arm that the movie industry needs. We feel that within a couple of years thousands of theatres in this country and throughout the world will be equipped for cinemascope."

The reason Hollywood needs a shot in the arm, of course, is television. And television isn't going to just sit back and let movies grab 3-D. Producer Henry Donovan of Telemount-Mutual Productions says he has perfected a process for television and soon will film 13 pictures in the dimension. Home viewers will need special glasses, Donovan added.

But back to Lichtman, and the movie outlook:

Must Win Audiences

He said that for the present, pictures of bigger scope will be filmed in the medium. This would give priority to westerns, adventure films and musicals. Dramas and comedies will probably suffer while the film makers learn how to treat them in the new techniques. Lichtman also foresaw that Hollywood could make less pictures, since films would have more playing time.

The movie pioneer lived through the transition from silent films to talkies. I asked him how that era passed to the events in the industry today.

"The transition is much easier,"

On-Farm Training Earning Reports Deadline March 1

World War 2 veterans taking GI Bill institutional on-farm training were reminded today by F. William Sheehan, officer in charge, Veterans Administration, contact office, 286 Fair street, that reports of their 1952 earnings must be submitted to their VA Regional offices no later than March 1.

Failure to submit the reports by the deadline, Sheehan warned, may result in discontinuance of GI subsistence payments until such time as the reports reach the Veterans Administration.

Trainees who haven't yet received the report forms may obtain them from their instructors.

Serve Dual Purpose
The earning reports—covering only income from productive labor for the calendar year 1952—serve a double purpose, Sheehan said.

First, they are used by the Veterans Administration as the basis for adjusting each veteran's subsistence for the current year.

Second, they are part of the veteran's course of instruction in farm accounting, thus giving him the chance to put into practice what he has learned in the classroom.

Veterans will receive assistance from their instructors in closing their books for the past year, and in transferring the data to VA forms.

On the report, trainees also must include any periods of time they may have been engaged in employment outside the farming activity.

More than 120,000 veteran-farmers, all currently in training under the World War-2 GI Bill, will be required to submit the reports, Sheehan said. The reports, however, do not apply to those in training under the new Korean GI Bill, since their monthly allowances are computed on a different basis.

Wicks Declares

through the press, through the radio, through television and through the personal efforts of the party workers in both major parties, it arouses the interest of all the people in the campaign which is about to be waged. Registration is one of the most valuable agencies of education along political lines that we have.

There has been no proof shown by any proponent of P.P.R. that it would result in increased voter participation at the polls. On the other hand, adoption of a system of permanent personal registration would be a costly undertaking, would provide greater opportunity for fraudulent voting and would actually make it more inconvenient for many newly located and first voters to register by cutting the time allotted them to do so. In the light of these facts, it is difficult to justify the need for permanent personal registration in our state.

Points to Defects

As to the bill to which this motion pertains, I would like to call to your attention at least three serious defects in it.

First, it seeks to amend the constitution by statute. Section 5, Article II of the Constitution states: "voters not residing in such cities or villages (that is, those having 5,000 population or more) shall not be required to apply in person for registration at the first meeting of the officers having charge of the registry of voters."

The permanent personal registration bill, however, on page 41 states that "registration as a pre-requisite to voting at any election held pursuant to the provision of this chapter shall be required throughout the state," and that "in all parts of the state permanent personal registration shall be required as provided for in this article."

On page 42, the bill proposes to amend section 150, subdivision 1 of the election law by striking out the proviso, "that in any election district in which registration is not required to be personal, no elector who is registered and otherwise qualified to vote at an election shall be deprived of his or her right to vote by reason of his or her removal from one election district to another election district within the same county within the 30 days next preceding the election at which he or she seeks to vote, and every such elector shall be entitled to vote at such election in the election district from which he or she has so removed." The language which would be struck out is the exact language of a Constitutional amendment adopted in 1945 and now contained in the constitution as Article II, section 1. You still can't amend the Constitution by statute.

Calls It Discriminatory

Now let's look at page 65 of the bill which contains a facsimile of the proposed registration poll record. In view of the record of both parties in this state on the question of discrimination, this provision in the bill is shocking. Question 12 on the poll record requires the applicant to state his color as "White, Negro or Other."

One of the major improvements in public administration is the simplified application for a war ballot. Presently, any resident in service, his spouse or parent may obtain a ballot by merely filling out a simple postcard and mailing it to his Board of Elections. This card contains only the briefest possible information as to his name, birth date, New York State residence and military address.

On the other hand, the war ballot application shown on page 182 of the bill would require the applicant to answer innumerable questions relating to his height, weight, color, color of hair, color of eyes and other questions as to his military rank, unit, military address, and so forth. In addition, it must be certified by a commissioned officer of the applicant's unit. Moreover, no provision is made for application by relatives who may be with him.

No Complaints From State

There have been many complaints about the difficulty of getting war ballots, but none originating from residents of this state. Our record is the best in the United States. We have made it as easy as possible for a soldier and his wife or parent to vote in all elections. We want to keep our record the best in the country and not subject our boys in Korea to the nuisance of such an application as suggested in this bill.

Cites 1952 Campaign

There are many gimmicks in this bill, but however it might be drafted, P.P.R. is not the answer to increased voter participation, which we all favor. We know that the excitement of the campaign and the interest of voters in the candidate and issues bring out the vote in any election. The fact that in order to vote a voter must register, has little, if anything to do with it.

The 1952 election clearly showed that when people are sufficiently aroused and interested they will turn out at the polls. The 61 and a half million persons who voted for President represented an increase of 11 million—or 21 per cent—over the 1940 vote, the largest vote cast heretofore. They conclusively demonstrated that when the people become completely fed up with 20 years of misrule in Washington and want to put a brand new administration with forward-looking policies into office they will turn out and vote—P.P.R. or no.

Figures already have been cited to show that the voting percentage in New York state is higher than in states which have P.P.R. In addition, election officials of Chicago and Los Angeles have admitted in writing that adoption of P.P.R. in those cities did not result in any increased voter participation. The contention that P.P.R. when tried in other states, has proved an improvement over our system of annual registration in New York, has been refuted, it seems to me, in the report of the State Federation of Labor, which made an exhaustive survey of permanent personal registration throughout the country. That report stated:

Not Progress, He Says

"There is an impression that other states progressed from annual personal registration to the more modern system of permanent personal registration." This is completely erroneous. A sound conclusion would be that permanent registration was adopted as a practical halfway measure on the road to the New York method of annual registration. Permanent registration has doubtless been a step forward for many places, but would be a distinct step backward for the cities of New York State.

In addition to the testimony of the State Federation of Labor, let me quote the words of Harry K. Butcher, secretary of the Committee of Seventy, which fought for permanent personal registration in Philadelphia as it now exists and is cited as a model for other cities. In a letter, Commissioner Costum, last year, Mr. Butcher, one of the foremost advocates of permanent personal registration, said:

Calls It Basis for Fraud

Mr. President, there is just one point at issue in this debate: Is the adoption of a system of permanent personal registration for New York state worth the tremendous added expense and increased opportunity for fraud which would result, particularly when there has been no conclusive showing that it would result in increased voter participation?

Finally, let us look at the effect of P.P.R. on the American system of government. The less people are aware of the need for registration, the less apt they are to become interested in their elective franchise. Anything taken for granted is less likely to be appreciated. Likewise, the easier something is made for human beings, the less likely they are to appreciate it.

I believe that every citizen of our great country should be aware of his responsibilities. I do not believe we should hand him a ballot on a silver platter. If we tell the people they don't have to register each year, that once they register they can vote for the rest of their lives, we are undermining their responsibility as citizens and contributing to the breakdown of our system of government.

I do not know how the members of the Senate are going to vote on this motion. I am opposed to it because I do not believe the Senate should assume the powers of a committee which has declined to report a measure for a floor vote and because I am not convinced that permanent registration is a good thing for the people of New York state.

In closing, Mr. President, I would like to again read to you the poem which I read last year, because I feel it is as appropos as it was then:

Tammany Hall's before a great reformer
Tammany Hall would put an end to vice.
Every Election Day they got the vote out
Always once and sometimes twice or even thrice.
Tammany Hall has suddenly gone righteous,
Says P.P.R. would serve the good of all.

If Tammany backs a bill, there's one thing sure
What's good for you is better for Tammany Hall.
Roll call, Mr. President, and I hope every member votes against this bill.

Way Is Cleared

len's letter states that, "as mentioned in the newspaper article, this one-room common school district is not eligible to participate in the school lunch program for full meals because of the fact that it has no cooking facilities. . . . The school lunch reimbursement program is partly financed by federal funds and partly by state funds, and in order to receive federal reimbursement the State Education Department and the school district must agree to the eligibility conditions required in the federal program."

After describing the two-cent per unit reimbursement program on milk, the letter then notes that the district is eligible to receive commodities under Section 32 of the Agricultural Price Support Act, but only "such commodities as can be consumed without preparation, such as fresh fruit and juices."

This act is only incidental to the school lunch program, it is pointed out, its main purpose being to maintain parity prices. Distribution of these commodities this year has been made the responsibility of the state Education Department. Prior to last summer, distribution was handled through volunteer agencies functioning in the various counties.

"As you can well understand," the letter points out, "the distribution of several million dollars worth of food to approximately 1,500 outlets in the state was a tremendous undertaking. After consultation with the Division of the Budget and the Department of Audit and Control, a plan of operation was worked out and has been set up and functioning now for several months."

Reviewing the exchange of correspondence with the Morgan Hill school, Allen wrote that the first two contracts filed were signed by the teacher rather than by the trustee as required. The third contract was sent to the education department properly signed by Michael Zito, trustee, but the name of the school district appeared as the Morgan Hill school, instead of the legal name, Common School District No. 8, Town of Hurley. It was how matters stood when the Jan. 29 story was written.

The trustee was away from town at the time, but later returned and signed the application again, and this time, according to Allen's letter, everything was in order, "so that it appears that this phase of the matter is now complete and the district will be eligible to receive any Section 32 commodities which are made available by the Federal Government," Allen wrote. "As previously stated, there have been no such commodities which would be available to this school up to the present time," he wrote.

Admitting that "the above sounds like a lot of red tape," Allen concluded his letter on the matter with the assurance that "we are endeavoring to serve the schools to the best of our ability within the limits of legal safeguards imposed upon us by federal and state authorities."

FUNDS FOR HOLLAND

Monday evening, February 16 between 7 and 8 o'clock there will be a house-to-house canvass in the drive for funds for the people of Holland. Sympathy is naturally very great for the many thousands of victims of the unparalleled havoc that has struck this country and there will be a generous response.

Numerous contributions have been sent in for the people of the tiny, doughty Holland, the worst hit by the disaster, and the drive on next Monday will afford all an opportunity to share in this humanitarian effort. It is estimated that loss from the storm will run close to a billion dollars and wreck Holland's recovery program, which had just about reached a state of thriving productivity.

Since the war, Holland through hard work, self-denial and self-respect had fought a tough battle to regain her financial strength. The sea has wiped out Dutch finances again, but that little nation can be depended upon to bounce as it has done in the past.

Only a short time before the storm sent towering waves to engulf the Dutch coast, the Netherlands government had indicated to the United States that it would renounce $15,000,000 it was scheduled to receive under the foreign aid program.

The thrifty, hard-working Dutch had bravely lifted themselves up to a condition of at least temporary self-reliance, and were an example to all Western Europe.

More than that, the Dutch had not long before just managed to overcome the last lingering effects of the man-made flood devastation wrought by the angry Nazis as they abandoned Netherlands soil in World War II.

The Germans had opened the dikes and allowed ruinous salt water to pour over productive lands. Thousands and thousands of acres were rendered useless for a long time.

Painstakingly, the Dutch set about restoring this soil as farmland. At the very minimum, it takes two years to compensate for the damaging effects of salt deposits. In many places, the task is considerably slower.

Now, with that ordeal barely behind them, many Dutch farmers must go through the same thing all over again. This fantastic double burden must strain their patience and fortitude to the limit.

So, because they have suffered most, it is fair that we give money and clothes and other necessities with a special eye to the Dutch. In the humanitarian view, theirs is the commanding need. From the hard-boiled, practical standpoint, if any insist upon it, the Dutch have eminently earned our help.

Just as a footnote here, isn't it reasonable to ask what the Russian Communists, those great humanitarians, those saviors of the masses and friends of the downtrodden, are doing to help ease the anguish of Western Europe's great disaster?

They'll surprise men of real good will if they send one old samovar full of rubles.

East German philatelists are warned against adding French and English stamps to their collection. They are permitted to collect Soviet stamps, however, as well as political leaders who will act as rubber stamps for the Kremlin.

A woman in Vereeniging, South Africa, always takes a five-foot pet cobra with her on shopping trips to frighten off pickpockets. It is a safe bet that even during the busiest store hours she is not bothered by crowds.

Prices of new houses are supposed to remain stable this year, real estate forecasters have said. Now that they've gotten where they are, that would seem to be the least they could do.

The basement playroom obviously is a wonderful place for the little ones to romp and tear. The difficulty is in getting them to prefer it to the middle of the hallway or the kitchen floor.

THE TAIT-HARTLEY LAW

Labor problems have become increasingly more complicated since the introduction of Fascistic methods in the NRA. The subsequent National Labor Relations Law (the Wagner Act) made the Government of the United States the final arbiter as to which labor union has authority in a particular industry or even in a plant. The Tait-Hartley Law continues this process, thus giving to a designated private organization a government-recognized monopoly over the control of men. The chartering of labor unions has the juridical value of legalizing a corporation, but the laws governing them are not the same nor are they equally responsible.

Labor leadership has gained an authority which it had not anticipated as possible prior to Roosevelt; it also gave to labor unions guaranteed treasuries of enormous dimensions which could be expended at the discretion of the leaders. No corporate expenditures are without Treasury audit if only for income tax expenditures; trade unions are not so audited.

This is the negative side of trade unionism, its worst manifestations having recently been exhibited in the investigations of the New York waterfront. On the positive side, wages, hours, working conditions, job security and other benefits have steadily improved during this period. The labor union is now an entrenched organization, functioning through contracts with employers which can be upheld in the courts. Attacks on individual labor leaders, the exposure of their corruption, will not lessen the strength of the labor union because the millions of workers and a large number of industrialists prefer that the labor union should exist.

The Tait-Hartley Law acknowledged this fact and recognized the labor union as a permanent institution to be fitted into American law as the corporation has been controlled by the Sherman Anti-Trust Law and the Clayton Act. Just as the Wagner Act was unsatisfactory, so the Tait-Hartley Law did not satisfy altogether. This was anticipated as such measures are not immutable and unchangeable as the laws of the Persians and the Medes. They are not only altered and amended by Congress, but they are interpreted by the courts.

Senator Robert A. Taft has already introduced amendments to the Tait-Hartley Law, as other members of Congress will. Undoubtedly, Secretary of Labor Martin P. Durkin will advocate a series of changes proposed by the American Federation of Labor. Before this session of Congress is over, the Tait-Hartley Law will be different from what it is now.

In his address on the State of the Union, President Eisenhower stated his own conception of the labor problems of the nation in terms as revolutionary as his statement of foreign policy. He denied the theory of the NRA, the Wagner Act and the Tait-Hartley Law which joins the Government with labor in a permanent and prevailing third party. He said:

"... American labor and American business can best resolve their wage problems across the bargaining table. Government should refrain from sitting in with them unless, in extreme cases, the public welfare requires protection."

The normal American procedure has been that the Government stepped in only during grave emergencies. Mediation and arbitration were employed rather than a permanent staff of Federal and State bureaucrats who often created cross issues which became involved in general political considerations unrelated to the immediate situations.

Both Roosevelt and Truman employed labor strife to strengthen themselves politically. Their hope was to bind "the labor vote" to themselves with such permanence that they could count on it to provide a mass base for their personal political ambitions. In 1950, Truman was shocked by the tremendous vote of Robert A. Taft in Ohio, clearly disproving the existence of a "labor vote" in one of the most industrialized states in the country.

In the 1952 election, the American Federation of Labor violated its permanent tradition, endorsing Adlai Stevenson for the Presidency. The C.I.O. had gone along with the Democratic Party as it had done since its organization. John L. Lewis, who had generally been a Republican, also supported Stevenson. Despite this unanimity of labor leadership, the Eisenhower majority disproved the existence of a "labor vote." The political power of organized labor was weakened in 1952.

Therefore, the labor leaders who had opposed the Tait-Hartley Law throughout its existence will have to accept such a law, somewhat clarified but not weakened.

DISCUSSION ON OBESITY BY SCIENTISTS

When a large group of scientists interested in nutrition give the entire time for two days to a study of obesity (excessive overweight), this matter of overweight must loom very large in their consideration of the health of obese individuals.

Two strikingly different roads to slimmness were offered to fat people by two leading American scientists reporting at a morning session of the Symposium on Nutrition held at the Harvard School of Public Health.

While one doctor largely dispelled any fond hope of the obese that reducing could be accomplished without diet and real hunger, another doctor recommended merely the stringent cutting down of carbohydrates (potatoes, bread, sugar) and gave the go-ahead to dieters to eat all the meat, lean and fat, they desired.

This symposium on obesity supported by the National Vitamin Association, sponsored by the Department of Nutrition, Harvard School of Public Health, and held in conjunction with the New England Post-Graduate Assembly was being held to enable leading scientists to hear and discuss the latest reports on obesity, sometimes called the nation's number one health problem.

Dr. Frank Evans, of Pittsburgh, Pa., stated that a patient wishing to reduce must be convinced that his obesity results only from overeating, and that it can be corrected only by rigid dieting, leaving him hungry all the time, but not abnormally so. He should be hungry most of the time, as that is normal.

Dr. A. W. Pennington, of Wilmington, Del., reported that "Obesity is due, not to faulty eating habits, but a limited ability to use carbohydrates (starches and sugars). Much of the carbohydrate eaten by a person gaining weight is converted to fat and stored in his body instead of being burned for energy. He then eats more in order to get the energy he needs. In the obese, furthermore, the eating of carbohydrates checks the burning of fats. Thus the obese person can eat all the fat he wants because his body usually burns fat very well. Dr. Pennington gave this warning, however, that this reducing diet cannot possibly work unless the carbohydrates are almost completely omitted.

Dr. David P. Barr, Department of Medicine, New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center, said: "Obesity is a warning, a red light for the attention of all who desire vigorous health and a long life." Some of the ailments that accompany or follow obesity are diabetes, high blood pressure, heart failure, gallstone, flat feet, rupture, arthritis of the hips and knees, intolerance to heat, and excessive sweating.

'Stupids, Don't You Know Utopia When You See It?'

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By Peter Edson
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington—(NEA)—The visit to Washington of Vice-Adm. Arthur W. Radford, U. S. Commander-in-Chief in the Pacific, provides opportunity for another look at American government in the so-called Trust Territory. In the last couple of months of the Truman administration, government in this vast Pacific area got pretty well fouled up, leaving a nasty situation for President Eisenhower to untangle.

Inasmuch as a United Nations mission will soon inspect American administration of the islands under the Trusteeship Council, it is considered important that everything be in good order. Since the United States has been critical of French administration of its trusteeship in Morocco, the American record in the Pacific Trust Territory must be perfect.

This is particularly so in view of the fact that the UN visiting mission last year praised the United States for its civilian government administration in the Pacific islands.

Crux of the whole business this year is President Truman's order transferring government control of Saipan and Tinian Islands, near Guam, from civilian to naval control as of Jan. 1, 1953.

The order was apparently issued without consulting Department of Interior, which has general supervision over all U. S. territorial governments. It was a Navy end-run which put over the transfer. The only explanation now given is that U. S. security and defenses in the Pacific required that these two islands be placed under exclusive Navy control.

Chapman Protested Transfer
Against such arguments it is difficult for any civilian or any civil agency of government to make a case. Former Secretary of Interior Oscar Chapman did, however, make a protest on the transfer before he left office. All the papers were then left for review by President Eisenhower.

As an alternative, Mr. Chapman proposed that if the decision was made to keep Saipan and Tinian under the Navy, then 19 other smaller islands in the Marianas—excluding Guam—should also be transferred to the Navy for administration.

To keep two governments in the islands—naval and civilian—would be duplication of effort, would run up costs of administration, would work hardship on the 5,500 natives on these islands and set back their economic development toward a self-sustaining basis.

As for maintaining security on Saipan and Tinian under civil government, the argument is made that this could be handled as it has been at Eniwetok, site of the major U. S. atomic bomb test area.

Though Eniwetok is one of the most sensitive areas under U. S. control, from a security standpoint, it has remained under civil government. The test areas have been closed off, as permitted under the UN trusteeship agreement. The Navy retains control over entry of all persons, planes and ships in the area. It is argued that the same kind of protection could be given Saipan and Tinian.

paratory to vacating the premises. Harry, who for the present is boarding at the Orchard Rest, plans to build a small home for himself later on. His parents, Braithwaite, bought the property in waterworks days from Lillie Dunnagan who operated a summer boarding house there. John Haggerty, well known reservoir department employee, who bought the Braithwaite place, intends to sell the house, which is now undergoing extensive alterations. The building commands a sweeping view of the Ashokan west basin and the Wittenberg range across the Esopus Valley.

George makes the long trip daily to and from the Roscoe, Sullivan county, area where he is employed as an iron worker on the great New York tunnel project in connection with the Peppack Reservoir. The genial George had interesting details to relate of how Bob Usher, his hunting companion and Olive Post Legionnaire, shot that 300-pound black bear in the Broadhead sector last fall. Bruin was crawling out of his hole under a big stump when the War 2 veteran laid him low with a shot from his trusty rifle.

Callers in the village Sunday included Mr. and Mrs. Louis Ludwig, residents of the Hurley avenue neighborhood of Kingston. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Aldrich who moved to Shokan from Woodstock last June have vacated the Winchell house on the corner to take up their residence in Kingston where the couple have employment.

Stevenson Aid in Illinois Is Viewed as Basis for Interesting Story
By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Feb. 11—Now that the truth is coming out to show the false basis of various charges against Vice President Nixon in connection with the political fund raised while he was a member of the Senate, it would be equally interesting if the whole truth about the money raised in Illinois for Governor Stevenson were disclosed.

For the amazing fact is that, while the Democratic presidential nominee during the last campaign made full disclosure of his own income tax returns, he never made an accounting or statement or revelation of any kind concerning three political funds—1950, 1951 and 1952—to which contributions were made in Illinois while he was governor.

Mr. Stevenson's data as published thus far relates only to his 1948 campaign fund. Johnson Kanady, veteran newspaper correspondent at Springfield, Ill., writes the following memorandum which has been received by this correspondent:

"No newspaper was ever able to get details of the 1950 and 1951 Stevenson funds, and so far as I know no newspaperman with Stevenson, except me, tried very hard. I was turned down a score of times on the request by William L. Flanagan, who was Stevenson's press secretary, and at one time I submitted formal written questions, and received no reply to them.

"There was never an opportunity to ask Stevenson about the matter personally. . . . to my mind he never held a press conference after September 15th and certainly never after the fund controversies broke. The only fund information we had from Stevenson was the detailed breakdown he issued in a formal statement. It showed 1948-49 contributors but failed to make clear how much of that fund was collected after the November 1948 election. There was a substantial deficit in the campaign fund at the time of his election.

"Collections, of course, came easily after the 1948 election, and I have been told they surpassed the deficit and provided a surplus which became the kernel of the controversial personal expense fund used for salary supplementation thru 'Christmas gifts.' . . . I am the source of the story that Stevenson personally used money from a fund for his own expenses. We published the story after it was verified by Mr. Flanagan. The late James W. Mulroy, who was fired by Stevenson, once showed me a checkbook for the private Stevenson fund. His point was not in criticism of the governor—he was describing Stevenson's meticulousness in not using state expense money.

He showed me records of checks drawn to defray expenses for a trip to the New York Herald Tribune Forum, and to pay for candy for a governor's Christmas party. The two were cited as examples. "Verification of the fund handled by Mulroy came from Flanagan on questioning by me. He said at the time he did not know whether the fund still (1951-52) existed, or who was then handling it. Flanagan also declined to clarify my questions as to just how many funds there were. . . . We were never able to get satisfactory information on what happened to the Forsyth Fund, or the similar fund which had been collected by a group headed by Herman Dunlap Smith in the Chicago area."

In a statement on September 27, 1952, released at Louisville, Kentucky, when the governor was there on a speaking trip, Mr. Stevenson said in part:

"So much for the matter of gifts to state employees. There have been assertions that there were other political contributions made during my administration. Of course, there were—1950, 1951 and 1952 were all election years in Illinois. Campaign contributions were received in all these years—and they were sent for political purposes.

This paragraph seems to have been completely overlooked by otherwise inquisitive newspapermen traveling with Governor Stevenson during the last campaign.

Governor Stevenson was not a candidate in either 1950 or 1951. No detailed information has been made available as to the sums collected either from firms doing business with the state government in Illinois or from state employees, though there have been printed various charges that state employees were required to "kick in" a certain percentage of their salaries. The full amount of the sums collected has never been disclosed.

It is not to be inferred from the foregoing that the Illinois governor did anything wrong either in personally soliciting campaign funds, as he did once at a luncheon for a group of Chicago business leaders to ascertain where part of the funds in connection with trips to make speeches, as did Vice President Nixon when he was senator. But in the interest of historical accuracy and future appraisal of methods used in collecting political funds, it is desirable to ascertain where part of the funds in connection with trips to make speeches, as did Vice President Nixon when he was senator. ### Never Open Trump In This Position

Hand No. 3 of the recent World Championship Match between America and Sweden was one of the most interesting of the entire 256-board match. In both rooms a pair of world famous experts got to a small slam contract when the hand was off two aces.

Just in case you are puzzled by the beginning of the bidding shown with today's hand, I should explain that the players on the American team use a weak opening two bid. When they want to make an opening forcing bid, they must bid two clubs regardless of whether or not they have a real club suit.

In this case, South opened with two clubs to show the strength of his hand, and later showed that his real length was in hearts and diamonds. I cannot argue with success, since Howard Schenken, the declarer in the "closed" room, actually made his unsound slam contract.

West was misguided enough to open a trump against declarer's small slam contract in hearts. Schenken thereupon drew three rounds of trumps, discarded all of dummy's clubs on his top diamonds, and then gave up one spade trick. Dummy made the rest of the tricks with good spades and a trump.

In the "open" room, in front of an audience of bridge enthusiasts, the Swedish declarer went down indignantly to his slam contract. Johnny Crawford, defending for America, opened the ace of clubs and then switched to spades to let his partner take the ace of spades.

I would not bother to report this sort of hand, even though it is spectacular, except for the fact that a very valuable lesson can be derived from it. It is almost never

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

The counter-revolution, which we have speculated about, has started off with a barrage of orders and directives, as well as plain words to our friends abroad.

It may be that Eisenhower's first hundred days will be as significant as Roosevelt's, only in a reverse social direction. Perhaps I should inject quickly that no one expects a Republican Administration to stop progress by attempting to revert to the pre-New-Deal days. It would be impossible. But it is possible to chop off countless barricades that have clung to our so-called ship of state and impeded its progress in the American way.

We have to recognize, nevertheless, that any counter-revolution is bound to cause readjustments and disappointments to those groups which are affected.

There is just no such thing as smooth sailing in socio-economics, regardless of the assertions and claims frequently made by the orators who come forth with this or that proposal which will rectify the existing ills of the capitalistic system.

Indeed, to be contrary, one of the great blessings of a free enterprise system is that it will correct its over-and-underings without the State intervening—if given a chance. Admittedly, the corrections hurt, just as any correction of over-doing hurts. But when the economic system is permitted to correct itself, the end result is successful, whereas when the State intervenes and attempts to "plan" the correctives, the end result is that the system is burdened with a mass of debt and obligations that make a thorough overhaul almost impossible.

We are going to find, I'm quite sure that a full recovery of the American free enterprise system will be impossible.

The last 20 years have made deep impressions on our way of life. Some are like tattoo marks—impossible to eradicate.

Nonetheless, the Eisenhower counter attacks have already indicated faith in "free market prices" and in "free competition." These are two of the staunchest supports of the American economic system.

Likewise, it is evident that monetary management will once again take its place in the conduct of credit. That is, the "cost of money" will be allowed to regulate the supply of money and credit. This, in contrast to controls, regulations, and panaceas thought up by egg-heads who think they are smarter than the time-tested laws of economics, such as supply and demand.

You see, even the egg-heads cannot control human nature, so all their schemes and fallacious plans fail to work—because suddenly human beings decide to go off in a direction exactly opposite to those contemplated in the charted plans and programs.

The Ruminator has been weighing the "contrary outlook" since the first of the year, when the great flood of "predictions" always appears. In opposition to the universal thought of "good business for six months to a year, and then a set-back," the contrary opinion called for either (1) a recession appearing early in the year, or (2) a possibility of a hyper-boom which would cause an extreme slump later.

This writer has been "hoping" for actions from the new Administration that would temper the boom now. The reasoning behind this is that readjustment coming now would undoubtedly be absorbed without too much difficulty and without causing a serious slump. On the other hand, if the boom were "to run away" the danger of a savage bust later would be something to worry about.

As I see it, at this writing, the boom is likely to be quieted down almost immediately. The recent spill in the stock market will be an aid to curbing speculation. Such a spill should be welcomed, in the Ruminator's judgment—the further doubts that the decline in stock prices will be serious. Any signs of approaching economic health will appeal to large investors. "Important money" looks far ahead. If the future holds promise of correcting the evils of the past, I think you will find that huge sums of venture money will go back into the stock market. But this kind of money doesn't hurry; it takes its time. But it is mighty smart when it comes to the "long view."

Slight increases in the "cost of money" coupled with the drop in farm prices—and the doing-away of controls—all should act to curb the boom and bring about early readjustments. Contrarily, this is a healthful outlook; not a pessimistic one.

Guard the Heart During the Winter

Crisp winter weather, invigorating as it may be, brings with it the highest incidence of "heart attacks" and heart failure of the entire year, the American Heart Association pointed out today, as it released six seasonal health precautions.

Deaths caused by diseases of the heart and blood vessels rise from the monthly average of approximately 13 per cent during December, January, February, and March. This is largely due to the prevalence of pneumonia, bronchitis and other illnesses during this period, which often impose a heavier-than-usual strain on the heart and circulatory system.

The increase is also attributed to winter activities, which call for greater physical exertion, such as wading through and shoveling snow, battling winds, pushing stalled cars, and stoking the furnace.

Although it is one of the strongest and hardest working organs in the body, the heart should not be subjected to more of a work load than that to which it is ordinarily accustomed.

To guard the heart during the cold weather months, the American Heart Association makes these suggestions:

Avoid self-diagnosis. Have your doctor examine your heart and lungs before the winter season gets fully underway, so that, if necessary, you can receive prompt treatment for any heart disease that may be revealed. If treatment is not indicated, he will advise you what precautions to take to protect your heart. If the heart is sound, needless anxiety can be avoided.

Avoid over-exertion. Physical activity rarely if ever can strain a healthy heart, but over exertion can aggravate damage that already exists. Exercise in moderation should be the general rule.

Get plenty of rest. If a winter vacation is not possible, relax as much as you can. Aim for eight or more hours of sleep per night. Avoid habitual late hours.

Avoid over-weight. Watching your diet will keep your weight from going above the normal for you. Extra pounds make extra work for your heart.

Avoid infections. Do your best to protect against illness, particularly respiratory infections. Should you become ill, seek treatment promptly. Immediate attention to "strep" infections is most important to guard children against rheumatic fever, which can lead to rheumatic heart disease.

Don't worry. Worrying cures or prevents nothing, but it can place an extra load on an already damaged heart. Instead, find out the facts about your heart, and do all you can to protect it.

Pact Is Reached in Delivery Strike; to Be Ratified

New York, Feb. 11 (AP)—Negotiators have reached an agreement to settle the strike which has curtailed newspaper and magazine deliveries by truck in suburban areas.

If the agreement is ratified by members of the Newspaper and Mail Deliverers Union (IND), the men will return to work tomorrow night for delivery of Friday morning newspapers.

The strike, which started at midnight, Jan. 29, has curtailed deliveries in the metropolitan areas of Long Island, New Jersey, Connecticut and Westchester counties, N. Y.

Deliveries within the city are not affected. Publishers of the newspapers are not involved directly in the dispute between the union and the 13 struck suburban wholesalers, members of the Suburban Wholesalers Association. About 500 members of the union quit work in the wage-hour dispute.

Terms Announced
Announced terms of the agreement last night were: A cut in the work week from 40 to 37 hours for night workers; a $2.25 weekly wage increase retroactive to Nov. 1; and employer weekly contribution of $2.75 per employee into a welfare fund, with the payments retroactive to Nov. 1.

The pact also granted a seventh annual holiday, Washington's birthday. Wages had averaged $92 a week.

The work week cut was a major demand of the union.

Union officials said a general membership meeting for a vote on ratification or rejection of the agreement would be held at 8 p. m. (EST) tomorrow. New York state and city mediators aided in reaching the settlement.

A number of clauses involving working conditions also were part of the agreement. These included provisions for having heaters and defrosters on all trucks, and guaranteeing that union members will not have to grease or oil trucks or do porter work.

The agreement is for a one-year contract, dated from last Nov. 1. The union vote on the agreement is set for Webster Hall, 119 East 11th street, Manhattan.

White House Aide Is Given Leave

Washington, Feb. 11 (AP)—After 20 years of handling the telephone lines leading to the President, Miss Louise Hachmeister was out today and she and the White House disagreed as to the circumstances.

The veteran chief operator, nicknamed "Hacky" by presidents and others, said yesterday she was "shocked and upset" by the way it was done.

James C. Hagerty, President Eisenhower's press secretary, said "it is my understanding" she was not ousted, but was on leave of absence.

Miss Hachmeister said she had planned to retire, at age 62, in October and draw her government pension but that she was told she would have to go on leave immediately.

She will draw pay while on leave and then be eligible for the retirement benefits.

"Skeleton" Uncovered

Salt Lake City (AP)—Workers digging a post hole dug up the skeleton of a 20-year-old city scandal. The hole, dug for a utility pole, disclosed a box containing city pay roll withdrawal receipts—dated in the late 1920s. Those receipts were the object of a search in 1929 when auditors discovered a shortage in city funds. No one ever was convicted in connection with the shortage—primarily because of lack of the evidence which was dug up more than 20 years later.

Calls are sent out by radio transmission to Oakland, Calif., and from there over telephone lines to points in the States.

Sheriff Is Killed; Two Boys Escape

Vandalia, Ill., Feb. 11 (AP)—Deputy Sheriff Clarence Kelly, 37, was shot and killed late last night after taking into custody two teen-age boys who had been put off a bus because "they acted kinda dopey."

The boys escaped after the shooting.

State police at Vandalia said Raleigh Walker of Effingham, driver of a St. Louis-to-Effingham (Ill.) bus, related the two blue jeans-clad boys boarded the bus at St. Louis. Walker was quoted as saying he ordered them off the bus at Vandalia because he said they acted "queer and kinda dopey."

The deputy sheriff was at the scene and Walker told Kelly about the youths, whose ages he estimated were 14 and 16. Walker detained them and put them in the back seat of his car without searching them.

Police said one of the boys drew a gun and shot Kelly in the head just as they pulled up at the Fayette county jail door.

ELLENVILLE NEWS

Ellenville, Feb. 10—George Mocko superintendent of Fantinekill Cemetery here since 1940, except for several years during the war, has tendered his resignation in order to accept the superintendency of the Woodland Cemetery at Newburgh. Before coming here about thirteen years ago Mocko had been employed at the Cedar Hill Cemetery, also in Newburgh. Active in community affairs since taking up residence here, Mocko presently is first vice-president of the Izaak Walton League and holds the state office of secretary. He recently resigned as superintendent of the Sunday school of the Ellenville Methodist Church after serving for several terms in that capacity.

The Fantinekill Cemetery Association announced this week the appointment of Fritz Eck as superintendent of the cemetery to succeed Mocko. Eck, who has commenced his duties and will be available at all times to plot owners, was recently released from the army as a captain after serving with the Army of Occupation in Germany following his recall to active service.

Mrs. Nellie Booth of 6 Park street, one of the older residents of the village, will celebrate her 82nd birthday on Saturday, Feb. 7. Gifts, flowers, cards and messages of congratulations and good wishes are arriving daily and several parties have been given in her honor, the first of which was a dinner party Tuesday evening given by her pinochle club of which she has been a member for a number of years. After the dinner pictures were taken and cards played. On Wednesday Mrs. Booth was guest of honor at a party given by the Parish Aid Society of St. John's Church. She has been an interest and active member of this society for a number of years. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Booth will entertain his mother on Saturday evening at a family dinner at their home on Beechmont avenue. Mrs. Booth has two sons, eight grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Saylor entertained 22 guests at a dinner party Saturday evening at their home on Warren street in honor of the birthdays of Mrs. Lena Lange and George W. Chase. Gifts were presented to the honored guests from the group by Mrs. Chase and Mrs. Arthur Wright. Cards were played and prizes awarded to Mrs. Rose Shaffer, Mrs. George Shaffer, Mrs. Arthur B. Wright, Fred Rose, William Olcott and Frank Schoner.

Mrs. Earl Terwilliger entertained at a party in honor of her daughter, Patty's 12th birthday January 10 at their home on Moulton street. Those attending were Carol Miller, Theresa Mc-Guire, Kathleen DeGroff, Delores Backman, Marjorie Kemmerer, Eileen Lipman, Sharon Comfort, Susan Whittaker, Linda Bennett, Patty Monahan and the guest of honor. Games and dancing were followed by refreshments. Patty received many beautiful gifts.

Fire Commissioners Plan Active Year at Hurley

Hurley Fire Board Serves
Growing and Vital Section

A financial report worthy of study by the shrewd investor is the annual report of the ordinary suburban or rural fire district treasurer.

With the trend toward suburban living, the volunteer fire department in this county as elsewhere is becoming of increasing importance from a dollar and cents standpoint.

The fire district tax—ordinarily the smallest item on the home owner's tax bill—represents an investment. How the money is used is shown by the district treasurer's report.

Take the Hurley Fire District, for example. Serving one of the principal residential districts within commuting distance of Kingston and including the village of Hurley just three miles southwest of the city, the district last year collected less than a third of a cent on the dollar of assessed valuation from its taxpayers.

Assessed at $1,123,300. The report of last year's treasurer, LeRoy Vogt, filed with the board of fire commissioners Monday night, showed the district in 1952 had an assessed valuation total of $1,123,300. The tax rate was set at $2.96 per thousand dollars of assessed valuation, or a little less than three mills on the dollar.

The total amount raised in this way for first district operation was $3,287.06.

For current expenses, the district spent $1,835.44 during the year. This is broken down by the treasurer as follows: Maintenance and repairs to buildings and equipment, $683.36.

Light and heat, $272.06. Insurance, $597.87. Legal advertising, $6.94. Telephone, $243.12. This pays for a direct line from Central Fire Station in Kingston to Hurley, through which the village fire siren can be automatically sounded.

Water rents, including two hydrants, $28.50. Postage and envelopes, $3.59.

New House Erected. During the year, the fire department erected a building to house its equipment and to serve not only as a meeting place for the company but also as a hall for community affairs.

The money to erect the building came from a bond issue and therefore some of the money raised by taxes went toward debt service.

Receipts other than taxes came from a $26,080 bond issue, part of which went to retire bond anticipation notes issued during the year and previously. Other revenue included a $300 item listed under refunds for insurance, etc., and $75 from the sale of pipe.

Under disbursements, an item of $19,912.67 was listed for the erection of the building, and $420.71 for interest on notes and bonds.

At the beginning of the year, the fire district had a balance of $93.68. It ended the year with a balance of $17.18 in its general fund and an additional $909.74 in its building fund.

Three Mills on Dollar. From the taxpayer's viewpoint, the return on his investment of less than three mills on the dollar of assessed valuation is not always easily measured.

In his annual report filed with the commissioners Monday night, Fire Chief Winfred Snyder estimated the year's total fire loss in the district at $24,465.

More than half of this estimated loss was attributed to one fire which on February 24 destroyed the home of Charles Silver with an estimated loss of $13,000 on the house and $3,000 on the contents. A fire Feb. 15 at the L. T. Schoonmaker Corporation garage and storage building accounted for another $8,250 of the estimate, including $2,250 for the building and $6,000 for the contents. Other fire calls included a chicken coop ($200), an automobile ($15), three grass fires and a chimney fire with no loss estimated, and two calls out of the district.

But no one can say what the fire loss might have been without a fire department serving the district.

More easily measured is the return on the investment as it applies to fire insurance.

Enjoys Lower Rates. Hurley, designated by the New York State Fire Insurance Rating Organization as a Class C area because of its fire department, enjoys rates lower than unprotected areas.

The owner of a frame building within two miles of the firehouse pays a standard rate of 70 cents per hundred dollars of fire insurance, for three years. If there were no fire department, he would pay 90 cents on a hundred for three years.

The savings on insurance—when it is remembered that the actual insured value of homes in the area is often about three times as high as the assessed value upon which taxes are based—can in many cases offset the amount paid in fire district taxes.

Directing the expenditure of the fire district funds in the Hurley district is the board of fire commissioners. Edmund Czerwinski is chairman and Edmund Czerwinski last year were Andrew Lehtonen, L. T. Schoonmaker, Stanley Matthews, Henry Battenfeld, and LeRoy Vogt was treasurer. Matthews' term on the board expired the end of the year, and he was succeeded by Walter Stauble. Vogt was succeeded as treasurer by Donald Briggs.

Former commissioners have been Justin Bell, Lowell S. Brooks, Richard O. Gruver and Arnold Johnson. The late Eugene S. Morehouse served three years as district treasurer. Gordon Burhans was first treasurer of the district, which was formed in 1943.

Instrumental in the formation of the fire district originally were Gruver as chairman of the organizing committee, Brooks, the late Wilson Markle and the late Mrs. Kathryn Harford.

Hadassah Speaker

HUGO WESSLER

An address, followed by a discussion, will be given by Hugo Wessler, local civic leader, Monday evening at a meeting of Hadassah in Temple Emanuel on Abel street. His topic will be Child, Parent, and Home.

Mr. Wessler will incorporate in his talk, the relationship between parents and children, school, church, club or "gang."

"Children are no different today than they were 100 years ago," said Mr. Wessler, "but can we say the same of the parents?" It is also Mr. Wessler's opinion that "we must prove to our youth that basic values, namely, good citizenship, honesty, integrity, and generosity are priceless possessions of people in a free world, and that we are ready to help perpetuate these values and ideals."

Included in the evening's program will be a skit entitled Hadassah Tapestry. The cast will include Mrs. Sunny Banks, Mrs. Isadore Tevlowitz, Mrs. August Cohen, and Mrs. Manuel Lipton. Mrs. Melvin Navy is the program chairman.

Hadassah members and friends are urged to be present.

Mrs. Port Elected YWCA President

At a meeting of the board of directors of the YWCA held Monday night, Mrs. Fred R. Port was elected president to succeed Mrs. Theron L. Culver, who had served in that capacity for the past five years. As Mrs. Port received the gavel, she expressed to Mrs. Culver the deep appreciation of the whole board for her outstanding and devoted leadership and presented her with a black leather handbag as a token of appreciation.

Other officers elected to serve with Mrs. Port include Miss Marcia Clark, first vice president; Mrs. Henry P. Eighmey, second vice president; Miss Dorothy DuMond, recording secretary; Mrs. Byron S. Chatham, corresponding secretary; and Miss Frances J. Osterhoudt, treasurer. New board members welcomed at this meeting were Mrs. Vincent A. Carr, Mrs. N. Jansen Fowler, Mrs. Vincent R. Guido, Mrs. Russell S. Moore and Mrs. Joseph F. Pfrommer.

During the business session a letter was read from Jack Feye, chairman of the Holland Relief Drive, requesting the YWCA to be responsible for organizing the collections in the 11th Ward. Volunteers were secured and plans made for carrying out this project.

Mrs. Henry P. Eighmey reported on the taffy sale being conducted by the Y. Teens during this week. The first day had proved a tremendous success with sales running far ahead of expectations.

Mrs. Frank W. Thompson, World Fellowship chairman, read a letter which had been received from Mrs. Sookcha Kim, president of the Chochiwon, Korea, YWCA, thanking the Kingston association for the boxes of sewing and knitting materials which they had received. Five boxes of materials collected and packed by the Y. Aides, the young adult group, were shipped to Korea in December.

The first in a series of card parties planned by members to help meet the current deficit will be held Friday evening, February 13 at the YWCA.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

By EMILY POST

(Author of Etiquette, 'Children Are People,' etc.)

A BRIDESMAID'S PROBLEM

A real, but not unusual, bridesmaid's problem is described in the following letter: "What can a bridesmaid-to-be do when she is asked to pay for a dress that is definitely unbecoming? The bride has made the choice and it is a style and color that my daughter would not buy and will not wear again. In fact, she dislikes wearing it at the wedding but would accede to the bride's choice if only the amount involved did not necessitate her getting some use out of it later on. Under the circumstances, must she still pay for her own dress?"

Your daughter's situation is not an unusual one. In other words, it is rare when all of the bridesmaids in a wedding party find the color and fashion of their dresses to their liking. There is nothing she can do about it except have it dyed and possibly remodeled afterwards. It is practically unheard of for the bridesmaids not to pay for their own dresses.

Honor To Pour

Dear Mrs. Post: Just how much of an honor is it to ask someone to sit at the dining table and pour tea throughout the afternoon? By that I mean, should someone of importance be asked to fill this place or does an amiable someone who just not mind this chore?

Answer: It is definitely an honor. In fact, it denotes that she is someone of whom you are especially fond as well as one who will "do the honors" with deftness and charm. However, a guest of honor never is asked to pour because her place is receiving with the hostess. The one who pours is generally a very intimate friend.

Do Not Show Amusement
Dear Mrs. Post: When a guest in our house tells an off-color joke, I don't like it and it embarrasses me very much. Is there anything I can do to stop one who has this habit?

Answer: You can, some time when the guest is alone with you, tell him (or her) quite frankly that you do not like off-color stories. But you can't do anything before others except change the subject as soon as you are able.

Many readers ask questions about small weddings. Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However, her leaflet E-8, "Today's Typical Wedding," gives details for small weddings and second marriages. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y. (Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Marriage Announced

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Mrs. Kathleen C. Johansson, 361 Pearl street, and Jon E. Johansson, 24-33 19th street, Long Island City, on Friday, Feb. 6, at St. Joseph's Church. The Rev. James Keating officiated.

The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. John W. Crosby Jr., brother and sister-in-law to the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Johansson left for a wedding trip in Florida. They will make their future home in St. Thomas, Virgin Islands. The couple's first marriage in 1946, terminated by divorce.

Mrs. Johansson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Crosby Sr., 361 Pearl street. Mr. Johansson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Erick Johansson, Long Island City.

On Route 28-A in West HurleyThe Mature ParentThere's a Difference Between True Gift and Selfish Bribe
By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Mr. Lyons has never made enough money to please his wife's mother.

Last week his son, Speed, celebrated his 10th birthday. His father's gift was a new baseball uniform and mitt. Speed yelped with joy when he saw them. His father was helping him don the new uniform in the hall when the doorbell rang. Into their happiness with each other intruded two delivery men with a large carton.

It contained an expensive TV set for Speed's bedroom use. The card that was attached said so and was signed by his grandmother.

The extravagant gift resulted in two consequences. First, it distracted Speed's appreciation of his father to his grandmother.

Second, it provoked a renewal of old soreness between his parents. For when Mr. Lyons reasonably protested the foolishness of encouraging his son's solitary TV-viewing in his bedroom, his wife burst into tears and accusation.

She said, "You are only angry because mother can do more for me and the children than you can." Whereupon Mr. Lyons rejoined bitterly, "Have it your way"—and retreated to the cellar with the empty carton.

I wish he hadn't. I wish he'd returned the TV set to its giver with a polite but firm suggestion that his child's needs be more thoughtfully considered.

It is unfortunate that Mr. Lyons is so ashamed that he hasn't made as much money as his mother-in-law thinks he should have. The shame is so insistent that he is always accepting favors from her that he doesn't want.

Though he suspects she is less interested in Speed's needs, for example, than in exposing his father's deficiency to him, Mr. Lyons goes right on letting her get away with it.

Though he's 42 years old, he is still as victimized by her definition of "success" as he was when her daughter used to sneak out to meet him at movies because he couldn't afford to drive up to her home in a car.

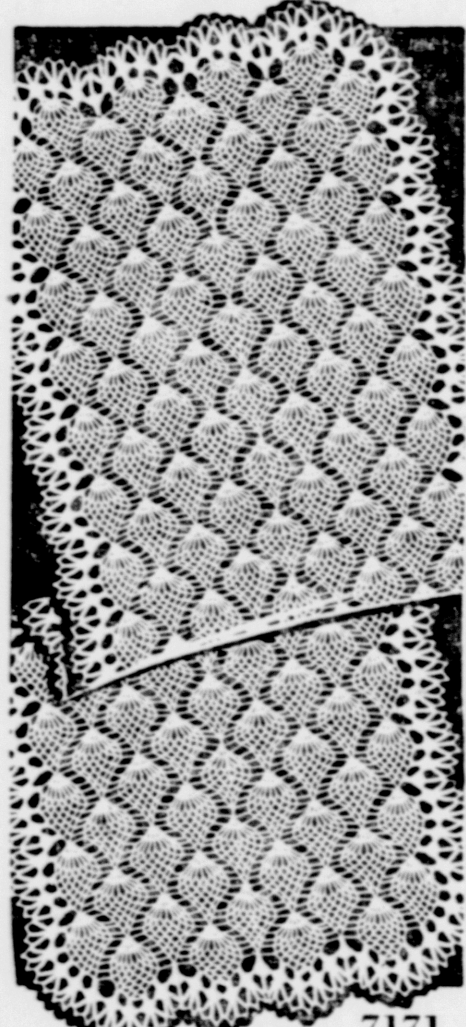

The years should have done better by Mr. Lyons than that. It's time he made his own definition of "success." For Speed will not profit by gifts given to belittle his father and separate him from his family.

What his father should have said is, "No, we will have no solitary TV-viewing in this home. We look at the living room set together. We want nothing in this house that divides us from each other; only things that bring us closer together."

We should be very careful indeed about permitting our sons and daughters to accept high-priced favors from anyone that tend to undermine their appreciation of the love behind our own gifts.

It is neglect of moral education to be afraid to point out to our children the difference between bribes motivated by selfish interest and true gifts.

60 Villages Flooded

Istanbul, Turkey, Feb. 11 (AP)—Three more rivers overflowed their banks in the Adana region of Turkey today as more than 60 villages fought the floods caused by heavy rains. Two deaths were reported and damage was estimated at nearly two million dollars in Adana alone. About 180 cattle were reported lost. In Izmir, lightning struck a mosque's minaret. Two persons were killed as it fell.

The smallest state in the Union has the longest name. Officially it is "the State of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations." In popular usage the last part of the name has been permitted to lapse and for the sake of brevity the state is almost universally known as Rhode Island, although the full name is still used officially. The states of North and South Carolina are tied, among the other states, for second place in the length of their official names.

(Items in this column have been written by journalism students.)

Band Plays at Oontera

Kingston High School's band took part in the opening of the new Oontera Central School Friday Feb. 6, by playing a concert in the school auditorium under the direction of Marlin Morette.

Band members who performed at Oontera are: Flutes: Bert Bishop, John Edinger, Hazel Herzog, Patricia Schatzel and Eileen Vradenburg. Oboe: Lee Herrington and Audrey Kallert. Clarinet: Robert Coutant, Louis Perry, Chris Brown, Robert Teller, Carolyn Dubois, Helen Grunewald, John Tomaszewski, Clifford Miller, Mary Bouchard, Marie Schellhammer, Judith Broski, Thomas Resso, Mary Lou Kellerhouse, Drucilla Freer, Jerome Kingsburg, Alo Salusti, Ronald Lawrence, Vincent Costello, Ann Thomas and James Decicco.

Alto clarinet: Kenneth Hyatt, Bass clarinet: Patricia Gallagher and Katherine Broskie. Saxes: Ole Christensen, Lance Lasher, Walter Debrosky, Robert Fiore, John Mazzucca, Lorin Beeher and Tom Neal. Cornets: Robert Luedtke, Thomas Dugan, Robert McInerney, Arthur Bryant, Ettore Brant, Robert Weisman, James Silvestri, James Norone, Howard Swehla, George Ticefoll, Walter Colclough, William Parmelee, Stephan Thomas and Jane Schipp.

Bassoon: Robert Pomeroy, Martin Kelly, George Duffner, Douglas Creamer, Peter Cain, James Freer and Barbara Goodison. Bells: Marcy Levine and Barbara Clement.

Impressed by Students

Mr. Knaus, instructor and trainer at the Albany State Teachers College, explained that he was very impressed after talking with Mr. Connick's retailing students last Monday.

The topic of discussion was the lack of efficiency and interest on the part of many store clerks.

Mr. Knaus said that this lack of interest and efficiency was caused by little or no training supplied to these clerks and the great insecurity they feel. Many of the stores do have training courses but never seem to have enough time to pass these courses on to their help.

Guard Leader Speaks

Kingston's National Guard leader appeared before all boys' assembly Friday at the high school auditorium. Col. Frank Harkin spoke on the advantages and disadvantages of joining the National Guard and during his speech material as the full dress uniform for all occasions and various small field artillery was demonstrated by high school students in the National Guard.

Supervisor Visits School

Arthur J. Dudley, supervisor of industrial arts, visited Kingston High School for three days to observe the industrial courses. Dudley said Kingston had a very fine industrial arts course and that he was pleased with the work and with the fine personal relationships of the teaching staff. He also said the shops are well equipped and maintained and that he was impressed with the fine building in which these shops were housed.

Mr. Hoderath, local director of vocational work at Kingston

High School, welcomes these visits by state supervisors because they are able to make worthwhile suggestions that will help us to make a good program better.

Juniors Defeat Seniors

Members of Junior and Senior Leaders' Clubs participated in a basketball game Thursday evening, Jan. 29, in the George Washington School. Results of the game were in favor of Junior Leaders', 26 to 24.

Players representing the Senior Leaders' Club team included Mary Meyers, Rosemary Pillsworth, Carol Tremper, Barbara Hastie, Pat Perry and Joan Snyder.

Junior Leaders' Club team was composed of Audrey Cherney, Nancy Herzog, Dorothea Van Kleek, Nancy Silvestri, Elizabeth Carr and Rosie Kreines.

Contest Is Held

Representing Kingston High School in the annual American Legion oratorical contest on the Constitution, Mary Johnston presented her speech early in January in front of an assembly at the high school.

Later in the month Mary journeyed to Saugerties to compete with Highland, Saugerties, Ellenville, St. Ursula Academy and several other schools in the Hudson Valley for the right to represent her school in the area contest. However, Saugerties High School was declared the winner.

TTA Plans Dance

Dancing to Jim Goings' Orchestra with Joe Modica and his accordion and cowboy singer Carl Sheely will highlight a dance sponsored by the Ulster County Future Farmers Association, Saturday evening at the MJM gym from 8 to 12. Refreshments will be served. There will be round and square dancing plus a square dance contest with prizes. Working actively on the dance committee are Francis Richter, Pete Fisher and Richard Isaacson.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

There is a remarkable little book called Steamboat Navigation and Railroad Transportation by Henry Whittemore, covering the subject from 1808 to 1908 when the book was printed. It was given to me by Fred Longendyke of Hasbrouck avenue. To most of us, Fulton's Clermont is the first steamboat to really go by steam. Few have heard of poor John Fitch (1743-98) who was known as a U. S. steamboat inventor. His first vessel was propelled by 12 wooden oars, and tried out successfully at Philadelphia in 1787. His second a stern-paddlewheeler, negotiated the Delaware river for nearly 20 miles, and the next made regular trips for hire. He went so far as to obtain French and U. S. patents in 1791, but could get no financial backing and so died poor and disillusioned nine years before Fulton came out with the Clermont.

In this book the following was taken from John Fitch's personal journal after his death: "The day will come when some more powerful man will get fame and riches from my invention, but nobody will believe that poor John Fitch can do anything worthy of attention." Oliver Evans, the inventor who built the first steam river dredge in U. S. in 1804, was quoted in this book as saying: "The time will come when people will travel in stages moved by steam engines from one city to another almost as fast as birds fly, 15 or 20 miles an hour. Passing through the air with such velocity; changing the scene in such rapid succession will be the most exhilarating exercise. A carriage (steam) will set out from Washington in the morning; the passengers will breakfast at Baltimore, dine at Philadelphia, and sup in New York the same day . . . they will pass each other in different directions and even travel by night." Oliver died in 1819, yet he saw the beginning of this marvelous age we are now living in.

Another American who not only predicted our future mode of travel but added to it as well as the others was William C. Redfield of Cromwell, Conn. He introduced the system of tugboats on the Hudson as a means of preventing the loss of life from the explosion of passenger boats. He wrote a pamphlet in 1829, predicting the rapid settlement of the Western States, the magic development of their agricultural and mineral wealth, and the consequent rapid growth of our great commercial metropolis. He even anticipated that after the construction of the proposed great trunk railways connecting the Hudson and the Mississippi, many lateral railways would bind in one vast network the whole great West to the Atlantic States . . . "so rapid will be the increase of this plateau's increase in population and resources that many persons now living will probably see most or all of this accomplished."

Redfield was not only an inventor but a poetic writer as he further says: "The railroad is the pioneer of civilization. It plows its way through the dense forest, the unbroken prairie, or the waterless and almost deserted lands, and at every mile of its onward progress a village springs up, farms are laid out, orchards planted, the fields wave with golden grain, and presently mines, manufacturing, schools, colleges and churches are called into existence all along the line." So United States grew and became strong and I think we should know more about men like Fitch, Evans and Redfield, as well as Fulton.

The Vatican state was created by a treaty with Italy in 1929.

NFA Blasts Monticello

4th Period Rally For Same Old Tale

The only consolation the rest of the DUSO conference members are getting out of the 1952-53 race these days is the fact that everybody makes the undefeated Goldbacks fight a little harder.

The final result is the same, however. Last night the Goldbacks were held to a 45-45 stand-off by Monticello for three periods. Then they lowered the boom, zoomed ahead by nine points in the first three minutes of the fourth period and breezed to their 34th straight victory, 67 to 52.

A week earlier Beacon High had blown a 9-point lead over the Goldbacks in the last three minutes. Coach Sam Kalloch's Blues, who are horrendous at home, saw a 13-point edge wiped out by Masteron's Marvells.

If anybody beats NFA this year, it will be a team that comes from behind.

Monticello led NFA 15-13 at the quarter, 27-23 at the half and then there was 45-45 three-quarter deadlock. That was the high-water mark of Monticello hopes.

Fred Snyder, a Goldback sub, emerged as the hero of the night with 11 points in the final period. Larry Kimball was the overall leader with 18 points and Mickey Burkowski, double-teamed all the way, settled for 16. Marty Ringold had 16 and Joe Gold 15 for the Monties.

Blues Upset

Poughkeepsie's Blues, a powerhouse at home, continued to find foreign courts too tough. Ellenville, which had captured only one game in 10 starts, pulverized the Bridge City outfit, 74-55. Kaplan scored 23 points for Ellenville. Bob Dahowski led the Blues with 16.

Middletown's rugged Middies overpowered Beacon, 68-58, at Middletown where they await Kingston's arrival on Friday. Bill Williams paced the winners with 20 points. Dick Patterson had 15 for the Becons.

Fallsburgh Central won over Port Jervis, 46-29, in a throwback to the "old days." Feldman and Kwartler had 12 points each for the Comets.

Salt Lake City—Max Chris, 178, Tooele, Utah, outpointed Watson Jones, 175½, Los Angeles, 10.

Victory in the preliminary. They trailed 6-11 in the first period but dominated the play after that.

Herbie Waterous led with 17 points, seven from the foul line and Charlie Johnson had 14. Tom Fleming contributed 8. Roosa topped the mountaineers with nine.

Jayvees Win

The Jayvees rolled on to their 10th win in 11 games with a 43-32

Letus' 42 Points New High Record For Y 'B' League

John Letus broke the YMCA "B" League individual scoring record with a 42-point blast for the KPA against Waterous Lumber last night.

Letus racked up 19 fields and three singletons to shatter the old mark of 37 held by his teammate, Huyler, Van Wagenen, as the KPAs rolled to an impressive 62-54 win over the strong Lumberjacks.

He was hot on one hand set shots from the side and driving layups.

The KPA grabbed an early lead and was in front 33-18 at the half. John Letus paced the Woodstock combine with 15 points. Bruce Waterous and Richie Hilton hit for 13 and 10 respectively.

Three Bros. Win

Three Bros. Farms overpowered the 50 Club with two torrid quarters to gain an easy 82-53 verdict. The Farmers ran up a 25-9 edge in the first quarter and widened their margin to 46-19 at the intermission.

Big Jack Doyle hooped 20 points to pace the leaders, while Chink Ferraro hit 16 and Frank Flore and Harold Hutton shared 27.

Ronnie Brandt hooped 17 and Roger Brandt had 13 to account for 30 of the 50 Club markers.

Hey, Boxing Fans Layne and La Starza Are Fighting Friday

New York, Feb. 11 (AP)—"Hey, fellows, how about us?"

You couldn't blame Rex Layne or Roland La Starza if they gave out with that yell.

Here they're set for one of the most important heavy-weight bouts of the year Friday night and what happens? Everyone is talking about Chuck Davey and Kid Gavilan's welterweight title bout in Chicago tonight.

"It's enough to drive a man out of his mind," said Jimmy De Angelo, La Starza's manager, with a sad shake of his head. "Oh, well, Roland will belt this Layne out and then we'll be ready for a title shot at the Marciano-Walcott winner. That will be a big pay day."

La Starza feels the same way. Repeat that for Layne and Manager Mary Jensen.

It's a stand out bout between the No. 3 challenger in Layne, 24-year-old slugger from Lewiston, Utah, and the No. 4 contender, in La Starza, 25-year-old New Yorker.

Rancho Dobe's Storm Repeats as Champion At Dog Show but Fans Jeer the Judges

New York, Feb. 11 (AP)—The mightiest dog in over a decade—Ch. Rancho Dobe's Storm—a Doberman Pinscher—is headed for retirement in June, his owner said today.

Storm, the sixth dog in the history of the Westminster Kennel Club show to repeat as champion of them all, was calmly munching his dog biscuits, while Len Carey of Cos Cob, Conn., his proud master, discussed future plans.

"As things stand now," said Carey, "I plan to retire Storm in June. We'll probably show him in New Haven, Conn., Hartford, Conn., and Boston within the next few weeks."

He said Storm probably will take another try at the big Morris and Essex show in Madison, N. J., then go to the Greenwich, Conn., event, then to the kennel for good. Storm has two legs on the Greenwich trophy, and needs one more for permanent possession. The last dog to score victories in two successive years was my Own Brucie in 1940-41.

Decision Unpopular

Judge James A. Farrell of Darien, Conn., who selected Storm for the top prize at Madison Square Garden last night, made an unpopular decision to say the least. There was so much booing, you'd think you were at a fight instead of a dog show.

The favorite of the 12,000 spectators was Ch. Thendrin Brain Tristen, an Irish Setter, who captivated one and all with his high stepping. He looked like a drum major marching in front of a band. Every time he moved, the crowd let out with a tremendous cheer.

But Farrell wasn't influenced, although he did devote considerable time to the setter, owned by Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Fraser of Olmstead, Ohio.

"Storm won on soundness," he observed. "He was as sound as a bell. He was very closely pressed by the Irish setter."

Although some of the ringsiders thought otherwise, Carey was impressed with his dog, who was handled by Peter Knoop.

"I think he handled better this year than ever before. Even last year when he won. I was more concerned with the blood bound than with the Irish setter."

Sickler's Shots Break Game Open In Last 3 Minutes

Delivery Ace Hits With 24 Points

Sickler Delivery's smooth working machine wrapped up the Recreation Basketball League's "A" pennant last night by defeating St. Joseph's, 58-53, in the last three minutes of play at the MJM gym.

Earlier victims of St. Joseph's, the Deliverymen eked out a 2-point lead at the three-minute mark and then broke the game open on two quick baskets by their ace sharpshooter, Hermie Sickler, and a layup by Chub McClosky.

Six players hit in double figures in the spirited action, with Hermie Sickler holding 24 for the winners. Phil McClosky hit with 12. Bob Bondar had 10 and Ronnie Crispino bucketed 9.

Frank Secreto and Beaky Smith rimmed 14 apiece for St. Joseph's and Jack Holahan had a dozen.

St. Joseph's ground out a 20-19 edge in the first period and held the favored Sickler's to a 9-9 standstill in the second quarter. The Deliverymen picked up a one point edge, 42-41, at the head of the stretch and that's where Sickler and McClosky came into the picture.

Playoffs Set

Four teams are involved in the Shaughnessy playoffs that get under way Monday at the MJM gym. Sickler's meet Village Rest at 8:15 p. m., preceded by the St. Joseph's-Violets clash at 7:15.

Culver's 'Set Shots' Big Hope For Faculty in Polio Game

The "secret weapon" to be used by the KHS Faculty against City Hall Thursday night has been exposed.

A source close to the Faculty team said the pro's would sink or swim on Acting Principal Theron Culver's long shots.

The March of Dimes game is scheduled at the municipal auditorium at 8:15 p. m. Thursday. A preliminary game will be played between two teams from the Boys Club Midget League.

"Culver is an old pro," said the Faculty source. "He only needs a little room. He'll just move around the center circle and murder the City Hall gang with his set shots."

"Matter of fact," the guy went on, "Theron was brought up in the old style. If you went driving in for a basket in his heyday, the opposition would knock your block off. So, they just dropped back and cut loose."

The City Hall quintet's "secret weapon" is believed to be unveiled as Mayor Oscar Newkirk's left handed hook shots.

"There's absolutely no defense against that kind of shot," said a city hall regular. "Ockie feints them out of position with his right hip and drives in with the left handers."

"And don't forget," the fellow warned, "you can't beat city hall."

Dempsey Paces Aces to Victory

Don Dempsey rimmed 21 points as the Newkirk Aces edged the Saugerties Hawks, 46-45, in a see-saw battle on the Saugerties court.

The Aces led 23-22 at the half. Dempsey hit 8 fields and 5 fouls and Jim Ferraro unloaded 10. Best individual scorer was Quackenbush of the Hawks with 22.

Build Up Your Bowling By Knockin' 'Em Down

With STEVE NAGY, Bowler of the Year

By STEVE NAGY
Bowler-of-the-Year

Just as yesterday's illustrations showed you the incorrect position for the ball when taking your stance on the approach, today's picture demonstrates more clearly the correct method.

You will note in the accompanying photograph that the ball is definitely held in both hands and on the right side of my body. My right elbow is close to the body—up against my side.

When I move forward and take my first step, the ball automatically moves forward and drops into its pendulum swing. Because I had held the ball to the right side of my body, this natural swing allows the ball to move directly back into an "on-line" backswing.

With the ball moving straight back, it will then move straight forward in retracing the path as I move to the foul line and deliver the ball.

By developing a backswing which goes directly back and not to one side or the other, I find it much easier to control my ball when releasing it.

Another little tip which I think is important is to push the ball directly toward my target in taking my first step. You will note I don't recommend that the ball be pushed to one side or the other, but it should be pushed directly toward my target.

This little short push gives the ball added momentum and helps it into the backswing naturally.

RIGHT — The ball is held in both hands and on the right side of the body. (NEA)

Chez Emile's 2966 Takes 2nd Place in Tournament

Carl Lundquist and Emil "Sponsor" Jordan powered the Chez Emile squad to second place in the gross division of the KBA city championships with a 2966 blast last night at the Central Recs.

With Lundquist firing a 212 solo and 640 gross, the Chezzies compiled a 2606 net and had 360-pin handicap. Jordan had a 534 net and 615 gross.

Royal Grill moved into third place as the standing board took a heavy scrambling. Big Bill Johnson, featuring a reduced version of his sweeping hook, knocked off a 663 gross triple. He posted 203-206-609 in the net division and carried 54 handicap.

Cleon Robinson and Ed Smides had 620 and 613 respectively in the gross department in the Veteran Barber Shop's 2937.

Dispatch of the Electrol League shot 2911 gross, with J. Brady furnishing 203 and 631 gross. H. Brooks knocked down 204-664 and J. O'Rourke hit for 602 gross.

Other teams were out of the first 10 but there were a flock of 600 gross series. J. Snyder of Mill and Drill rolled 607 and George Barringer had 204 and 647. N. Russell posted 605 and Joe Aiello 619 for Foremen.

Mike Milano, Electrol secretary, anchored the Maintenance with a rousing 674. He clustered 216-602 in the net division. H. Dreftin topped 604; Tom Siedler 223 and 611 gross; Huck Svirsky rolled a 237 solo and 654 gross.

Floyd Crantek opened with 239 for the best solo of the night and had a 620 aggregate. B. Crowe of Skyline grossed 658.

High powered major league squads make their first appearance in the tournament tonight at 7 o'clock.

Tugs on Hustle To Clear Harbor

New York, Feb. 11 (AP)—Tugboats scurried around the world's largest harbor today to clear up a backlog of work that piled up during 10 days of a strike by AFL crewmen.

The end of the strike was announced yesterday afternoon, and the tugs resumed operations in the evening.

Yesterday's agreement covered the last remaining point in dispute: A demand by the union, the AFL International Longshoremen's Association (ILA), that no tug be manned by less than three men.

Both sides agreed to submit this point to arbitration.

Other issues settled earlier included a compromise 17-cent-an-hour wage increase. Wages had ranged from $1.36 to $2.35 an hour.

Tugboat strikes continued in the ports of Philadelphia and Norfolk.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, Jr.

Scouts See Movies Of Village in 20's

Woodstock, Feb. 11—A father and son dinner of Boy Scout Troop 34 was held Tuesday night in the basement of the Dutch Reformed Church. Included in the evening's program was the showing of moving pictures taken of Woodstock around 1926 and 1927 by Victor Schrader's father. The pictures ranged from views of business places on the village green to shots of former Woodstock fire engines.

Among the guests present at the dinner were Roy Quackenbush, president of the Rip Van Winkle Council; the Rev. Harvey I. Todd; George Compton, scoutmaster of Troop 34; Mrs. Harvey I. Todd; Warren Graver; Montecena DeWitt; Irving Cousins and Max Angel.

Named to Art Jury

Woodstock, Feb. 11—John Pike, nationally known watercolor artist and illustrator will serve on the jury of selection for the 86th annual exhibition of the American Watercolor Society to be held at the National Academy Gallery from February 26 to March 15. Pike was an award winner in a similar watercolor show in 1942.

Pottery Class Held At Miller Studio

Woodstock, Feb. 11—The second class in a series of 10 lessons in pottery under the guidance of noted ceramic artist, Bill Miller, was held at his studio Tuesday night. The series of lessons is being sponsored by the Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen in conjunction with the New York State Adult Education Department.

A variety of ceramic pieces are now in the process of completion by members of the class, including ing small statues, bowls, Dutch shoes and ash trays.

To Hold Dinner

Woodstock, Feb. 11—The annual dinner of the Woodstock Business Association will be held Saturday evening at the White Horse Inn in this village. All members who have not yet sent in their reservation cards are requested to do so as soon as possible.

Meeting Canceled

Woodstock, Feb. 11—Due to the prevalence of illness in the village, the regular meeting of the Overlook Home Bureau scheduled for Thursday night has been cancelled. The next meeting will be held on the usual date, the second Thursday of the month, March 12.

Party Is Postponed

Woodstock, Feb. 11—The party scheduled for Friday, Feb. 20, by the Girl Scout Troop 74, has been postponed and will be held Wednesday, Feb. 18, at the Woodstock Elementary School.

Barrett Describes

and Waltman has denied receiving it.

The other letter was written as though from Burns W. Lee, Los Angeles public relations counsel, to Roy De Groot, New York public relations man, and dated February, 1951. It was a covering note forwarding a photographic copy of the first letter.

Lee denied writing the forwarding letter or knowing anything about the letter purportedly forwarded. He said in Los Angeles yesterday that he told the committee even the stationery on which the letter was typed was spurious.

Received Lee Letter

De Groot told the subcommittee he received the Lee letter, had no reason to doubt its authenticity and decided to turn it over with the enclosure, for which he could not vouch, to the Democratic National Committee. He said he was routed to the New York Post, which was unable to establish the authenticity of the letters and did not use them. The Post confirmed it had been offered the letters a week before the election and decided not to use them when it could not establish that Sanders had written the letter attributed to him.

This occurred after the disclosure that Nixon had received a special fund from California supporters and he had made his dramatic television defense of his action, contending he had not benefited personally from the fund, but that it had gone for office expenses he did not feel should be charged to the public.

Gets Secretary Post

Albany, Feb. 11 (AP)—Alton G. Marshall of East Schodack, Rensselaer county, today was appointed secretary of the Public Service Commission to succeed the late Murray G. Tanner. The post carries a base salary of $9,325 a year.

Grange News

Asbury

Those present at the last meeting of Asbury Grange held Monday, Feb. 9, witnessed an interesting motion picture of New York state showing the various vacation spots, in color and sound. The program for the evening was in charge of the lecturer, Mrs. Louise Saile, and was entitled Our America. It included a reading on Texas by Mrs. Saile and Our America by Mrs. Stanley.

The various state and national contests were announced by Mrs. Grace Coffin and included for seniors members a luncheon set with four napkins; juniors, a cotton handbag. There will also be the usual baking contest which this year consists of 4-inch old-fashioned molasses cookies.

It was also officially announced that Catskill Valley Grange of East Durham will include Asbury's candidates in its working of the first and second degrees, on Monday, Feb. 16. Lunenburg Grange of Athens has invited candidates for the third and fourth degrees to participate in the working of these degrees on Friday, Feb. 20.

Anyone desiring to either participate in or attend as a visitor and has no available transportation may call Mr. Elliott in Catskill or Mrs. Coffin in Catskill and transportation will be arranged.

The bunco and card party scheduled for Saturday, Feb. 28, has been dispensed with and the grange hall turned over to the Kiskatun 4-H Club for that evening for the purpose of holding their dance. A county grange youth meeting will be held Wednesday, Feb. 11, at Rosendale and a county grange youth dance at Lake Katrine on March 20, it was announced by Don Barnhart, chairman of the Ulster County Grange Youth Committee. Each grange is to furnish a square dance team to enter the various contests there that evening.

There will also be a county grange officers' meeting on February 19 at Huguenot Grange Hall in New Paltz. This date has been changed from February 11. These officers' meetings are not alone for present officers but included any grange member who desires to be instructed in the various and numerous rituals of the grange, particularly new members. Usually an officer of the state grange is present to answer all questions.

Asbury will team up with Stone Ridge Grange this year in the annual county grange visitations. The two granges will visit Rosendale on March 23 and there will be a joint lectures' program to include also the service and hospitality committees of both granges. No granges have been scheduled to visit Asbury, however.

Word has also been received that District Deputy Vernon A. Barnhart will make his annual official visit to Asbury Grange on Monday, Feb. 23, accompanied by District Juvenile Deputy Graham.

Asbury's next big affair will be the Valentine dance to be held at the Hall-on-the-Hill Saturday, Feb. 14.

William S. Elliott, master of Asbury Grange, announced appointment of Silver Sheathe committee composed of Mrs. Louise Saile, Mrs. Walter Stanley and Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Lauer.

These meetings will delve into the old records of the grange to determine who is entitled to this recognition.
